BBA AVIATION ANNOUNCES SALE OF OXFORD AVIATION TRAINING

BBA Aviation Plc ("BBA") today announces that it has agreed to sell its Oxford Aviation Training business ("OAT") to GCAT Flight Academy for £32 million in cash and will retain cash of c. £5 million as part of the transaction. The transaction will produce an exceptional profit on disposal of c. £20 million with tax leakage expected to be minimal. Completion is expected to take place within the next two weeks.

OAT, based at Oxford Airport, is one of the world's leading airline pilot training establishments, and has been supplying trained pilots to air operators across the world for over forty years. In the year ended 31 December 2006, OAT had a turnover of £18.5 million.

Commenting on the disposal, BBA Aviation's new Chief Executive Simon Pryce said:

"I am delighted that Oxford Aviation Training is joining GCAT. GCAT is a market leader in the Pilot Type Rating Training sector and becoming part of a wider training group will be of substantial benefit to the OAT business and its staff, enabling it to consolidate its position in the European market place and beyond.

We are continuing with the process of rationalising our portfolio and the sale of Oxford Aviation Training further increases BBA Aviation's focus on its core Flight Support and Aftermarket Services and Systems activities. The proceeds of the sale will be invested in these core businesses, where we see a number of opportunities for consolidation."

Notes to Editors

BBA Aviation is a world leader in aviation services focusing on Aviation Flight Support and Aftermarket Services and Systems. BBA Aviation provides flight support services for corporate and commercial aviation customers as well as maintenance, repair, overhaul and spare parts for aircraft engines. It also supplies aviation components, landing gear and hydraulic systems. These are attractive niches in a $250 billion market with clear barriers to entry, where BBA has leading positions, well-known and reputable brands and a proven track record of organic and acquisition-led growth.

BBA Aviation was formerly part of BBA Group, but following the demerger of Fiberweb, in November 2006 it became a stand-alone aviation services business.
